der the Constitution for an indefinitely prolonged contesting litigation and arresting development in the Colorado basin which would have otherwise followed.

It was the general expectation tonight that the commission would be able to complete the actual language of the compact by Saturday, next, although there was said to be a possibility that sessions would go into next week to permit governors and governors-elect of the seven States of the basin to come to Santa Fe. They were invited to meet by Chairman Hoover.

The legislatures of the seven States in the basin must ratify the compact before it becomes effective. Congress also must approve it to make it effective.

STATES USE TREATY POWERS IN COMPACT

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 16.—The Colorado River Commission, so-called, is composed of a representative of the United States and a commissioner for each of the seven States, Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming. It was formed for the purpose of formulating an interstate compact to provide for the equitable apportionment and disposition of the waters of the Colorado River within the United States.

The treaty-making power of the States forms the basis of the legislation by the States authorizing the formation of the commission and an act of Congress not only authorizes the appointment by the President of the representative for the United States but gives national consent to the States to enter into such a compact pursuant to Article 1, Section 10, Paragraph 3 of the Constitution of the United States.

FIRST JOINT MEETING
The treaty-making power of the States frequently has been availed of in matters respecting interstate boundaries, fisheries and other like subjects but this is the first instance in American history where several States are attempting to make an equitable apportionment of the benefits to be derived from the uses of the waters of an interstate stream prior to the development of conflict respecting established uses and before the construction of large enterprises which ultimately would give rise to interstate conflict.

The application of the treaty method to settlement of present or future interstate complications respecting use and disposition of waters common to two or more States is the natural outgrowth of litigation between some of the States before the United States Supreme Court and particularly the late case of Wyoming vs. Colorado involving the use and allocation of the waters of the Laramie River.

Authorities agree that the Imperial Valley in Southern California is one of the most fertile and productive of the agricultural areas in the United States. The whole area is below sea level and is protected from inundation by an alluvial bar formed by deposits of silt carried thence by the Colorado River. In diverting a small part of the waters of the river through canals for irrigation of the lands of the valley this bar was weakened to such a degree that the whole river followed the line of least resistance and turned its course away from the Gulf of California and into the valley. The threatened inundation of the valley stopped and, by continuous effort, the people of the valley have succeeded in controlling the floods, which have become an ever-increasing menace.

RESERVOIR CONTROL
Reservoir control of the flow of the river has been the natural conclusion of careful engineering study of the flood problem. The uses of such reservoirs for generation of power and irrigation to additional lands will be necessary in order to repay the enormous cost of the construction.

But such construction and uses might well give rise to preferred claims upon the entire flow of the river, to the detriment of the necessary future development of the territory of the four upper States in which the river has its rise. The establishment of institutions by virtue of which a preferred right to the use of all the waters of the river might be asserted, it has been pointed out, would result in a perpetual embargo upon the future development of the upper areas devoid of such development and use of the waters of the river are adequately protected before the construction of the structures upon the lower river.

By providing such immunity from assertions or adverse rights the upper territory will be left to its natural and normal development without materially interfering with the immediate development of additional territory on the lower river and flood protection to the threatened areas.

THE SALT LAKE MEETING

In view of this situation a conference of the governors of the seven States whose territory is so involved and representatives of the United States was held at Salt Lake City, Utah, in January, 1919. The governors and representatives of the States in which the river has its rise and land demanded that the first development upon the river should be upon the upper reaches of the stream and that the upper States should have protection against adverse claims which might result from immediate development upon the lower river.

Subsequent conferences of like character were held at Los Angeles, where similar resolutions developed that the man had been torn by a pack of eighteen dogs owned by Bellard and the Rose woman, who were occupying a nearby cabin.

The Rose woman declared her dogs had been used by Bellard in a quarrel between him and herself and had injured him seriously. She testified she and Bellard had carried the injured man into his cabin, but were unable to go for medical assistance because of the breakdown of their automobile. The dogs afterwards were shot.

Upon the invitation of Gov. Shoup of Colorado, a similar conference was held at Denver in August, 1920.

ADVISER SELECTED

Delph E. Carpenter of Greeley, Colo., for a number of years identified with litigation respecting the disposition of the waters of interstate rivers, was requested by Gov. Shoup to act as a legal adviser to the resolutions committee and was called upon to formulate some method by which the rights of the States of origin of the river could be protected in their future development without interfering with the early construction of the large reservoirs on the lower river. Mr. Carpenter recommended that the States avail themselves of their treaty-making powers and that appropriate legislation be enacted to authorize the formulation of a compact between the States fixing and determining their respective rights.

Subsequent to the adjournment of the Denver conference, bills were prepared by Mr. Carpenter for introduction before the legislatures of the seven States upon request of Gov. Campbell of Arizona, chairman of the conference. Bills were passed by the legislatures of the States and commissioners were named by the governors to conform with such legislation.

SANCTION ASKED

On May 10, 1921, the governors of the seven States or their duly accredited representatives and the Compact Commission, already named by each of the governors, met at Washington, D. C., to consider the compact and to grant consent to the States to enter into a compact to authorize the appointment of a representative of the United States as a member of the Compact Commission. These resolutions were presented to President Harding May 19, 1921.

Appropriate bills were introduced by Representative Mondell of Wyoming and by U. S. Senator Burton of New Mexico. The bill introduced by Representative Mondell passed Congress and was signed by the President and pursuant thereto, Hon. Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, was appointed by the President as the representative of the United States on the Compact Commission.

HOOPER CHAIRMAN

The first meeting of the commission was held at Washington, D. C., January 26, 1922. Herbert Hoover, representing the United States, was elected chairman of the commission, and Clarence C. Stetson of Washington was appointed executive secretary.

On January 28, without definite action, the commission adjourned subject to the call of the chairman. STRIKES MUST GO TO COURT

Kansas Points With Pride to Her Record in Settling Industrial Disputes

By Henry J. Allen

Courier of Kansas

ONE of the greatest needs of this country is a fair and just way of settling disputes between labor and capital so that strikes may be done away with. That need has been borne in upon all of us more strongly in the last few years than ever before. No class needs this more than the laborers themselves, whose leaders, pursuing the archaic methods of the strike, have brought upon them untold hardships and miseries.

In this country there is work enough for every able-bodied man, trained and untrained, at a wage that will supply all his needs and be fair and just to him and to his employer. Notwithstanding this fact there have been 25,000 strikes in this country in the last three years and they have affected, directly or indirectly, millions of people and have been productive of enough sheer waste to buy and pay for a comfortable home for every man who went on strike.

Not only that, but over 90 per cent of those strikes failed of the purposes for which they were called and the less than 10 per cent of so-called successful strikes did not produce enough from their victory to pay back to the laboring men what it cost them to be on strike.

Not only are strikes costly to the men who engage in them but they lay a heavy burden on the public. In the Middle West today the farmer is suffering from the waste of the railroad strike, which has retarded the movement of his farm produce and affected his marketing conditions. He had already been paying a great toll to the transportation companies in high freight rates. The coal strike slowed him down, too, and today over all the Middle West the farmer, brought into grim contact with the waste of labor strikes, is demanding that the ever-recurring quarrels between labor and capital shall be solved through some other method than the strike, shall be taken in charge and settled by responsible government that will give justice to all parties affected by the controversy, including the public.

The Kansas Court of Industrial Relations is an arm of government which is settling labor disputes in that very way. It was created out of the emergency of a coal strike, which left the people of Kansas the helpless victims of a conflict in the bringing on of which they had no part. The question arose as to whether the state had the moral right and the power to mine coal. I believed it had, and I asked the state supreme court to turn over to the state 60 or 70 million dollars' worth of mining property. The chief justice, surprised at my request, pushed his glasses up on his forehead, looked at me in wonderment and asked: "On what allegations?" I replied: "Well, judge, on any allegations you think would work."

GLAND TREATMENTS FOR
AMONG ENGLISH

Since Connie Edie, famous English actress, announced the return of her youthful looks as a result of glandular treatment in capsule form, many English women have obtained similar treatment. They have already tried the treatment and are now enjoying the influence of the capsules. The capsules are a scientific preparation of the vital glands of the body, and are a natural and safe method of restoring the body to its normal state. They are sold by the Dr. J. C. Edie Co., 1111 Broadway, New York City. There are also agents in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Get-ERAN-son — the Player

THE DIFFERENCE
UNDoubtedly one of the differences between ERAN-son and the ordinary piano is:

The keys are knocked down "stored up power" in the "player piano, making it play "positive strokes" just as one would with stiff fingers. Musical this "mechanical" playing.

Not so, with the Get-ERAN-son. Keys are actually pressed down on personal touch the same you were fingering the keys. Really, it is impossible to tell the difference between hand playing the Get-ERAN-son.

IN FACT, THERE IS NO DIFFERENCE

Death

SOME DAY, somewhere, all alone, you and I must step into the dark. How shall we act when our time comes? Is the end of living a greater adventure? Or is it merely defeat?

One night not long ago, in a Boston hotel, Irvin S. Cobb fought for twelve hours to keep his grip on life. Seven times he slipped down as close to death as a man can go, and live.

He was conscious throughout. He knew and felt and thought; and in THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE for December he tells—an extraordinary fragment of autobiography.

Says MR. COBB:

"I have not set down this account merely through a desire to talk about my own ailment or to glorify in print my own adventure....

"I think I have a decenter motive. We are all of us going to die. Some may look upon death with indifference, some with a shrinking dread in their souls. Some—and this, I assume, means the majority—in times of health put from them all contemplation of death as a concrete fact; even so, there must be hours when they speculate upon it as applying to themselves.

"So to all such, I, who have skirted the Valley of the Shadow, say that if my own experience is typical—and it surely must have been—then those among us whose lot it will be to face the finish while still in reasonable possession of our faculties, will face it without fear and without bitterness, without reluctance and without repinings, without sufferings, whether physical or mental; we shall find it, at the last, but a peaceful transition, an eternal change peacefully accomplished."

There are more than a dozen features in THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE for December, but this, by Irvin S. Cobb is one of the great human documents of our generation.

Other magazines are made for us; this magazine is made of us. It lives our lives—enlarging our friendships, inspiring our progress, fighting our fears.

Even the fear of Death.

RUSS DEALS EMBARRASS MUSSOLINI

Promise to Deport Soviet Envoy May Be Broken for Sake of Concession

DAY CABLE—RUSSIAN DISPATCH (Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.)

ROME, Nov. 16.—The Fascist government's attitude toward Soviet Russia is likely to cause embarrassment to Premier Mussolini, who is committed to an unconditional anti-Communist policy. This was indicated by Deputy Minister, who has promised to interpellate the new chief in Parliament.

The Fascist just now are wavering on the actual performance of campaign promises about the soviets, which, if kept, would mean the deportation of the Soviet ambassador from Rome. The Fascist realize that if the Soviet envoy is invited to leave Italy would promptly lose a $500,000-acre concession in Russia.

Furthermore, Russian representation appears to be in France, and Italy does not desire to play an opposite policy. Consequently, the first test case of the Soviet commercial accord has come before a Naples court. The court has awarded between two Italian corporations contesting the sequestration right of the soviets. The court upheld the Department of Agriculture, which has been purchasing by another firm before the war.

Premier Mussolini will have to state his position regarding the legality of this Soviet deal, which is attracting wide attention in business circles, but little prominence in the press.

GUS EXPECTS A TOUGH BATTLE

Says Game Saturday Will be Like Stanford Scrap

Believes Teams Are Very Evenly Matched

Fears That Brown Will Do Trojans Damage

The game which we play Saturday with Idaho will be one of the toughest on this season's schedule and our boys are going to have to fight just as hard as they have in any game this season. I believe that it will be fully as good as the U.S.C. game with Stanford last Saturday. Thus spoke Gloomy Gus Henderson, head mentor and main troublemaker of the University of Southern California grid team.

According to Gus the Idahoans have an almost impregnable defense and although the Trojans are going to open up with all they have, he does not think that the Vandals will be so awestruck that they will allow the local team to tramp all over them.

Gus seems to be of the opinion that the week's rest which the Vandals have had while traveling to Utah and then to Pasadena, has been just the thing to keep them from getting stale. It is believed that the visiting squad will be in something of a raw mood, and will fight the Trojans as a man who has not slept for three days would fight a neighboring community college.

Fullback Babe Brown is the one man on the Idaho team which Gloomy Gus is really worried about. Brown is a blocker, passer and line plunger, and aside from him, the team supposedly has no outstanding stars. As the Trojans' mentor is greatly worried about the game, however, it is believed that the rest of the team must be equally good.

Whether or not Babe Caltan, U.S.C. captain, will play Saturday is a deep and serious question which is puzzling the grid fans at the local university. Caltan claims that he will play if he has to go into the field on a stretcher, as he has only two hours of varsity football left, and does not intend to lose any part of them. Unofficial reports at the school here have it that Otto Anderson will play at Pasadena against Idaho, but Gus says that he can't, as he owns a bad case of water on the knee. Aside from this the team seems to have fully recovered from the effects of the hard game with Stanford last week.

Gloomy states that instead of the Vandals working under a weight handicap of fifteen pounds the teams were matched within three pounds.

Caltech Team to Mix With Oxy Gridders

PARADISE, Nov. 16. — Coach Stanton has been driving his crew of Engineer gridders hard all week in preparation for the Oxy-Caltech contest scheduled for Saturday at Tournament Park. The Fox realises only too well that his men must be in tip-top shape if they are to make any kind of a showing against the athletes from the Tiger institution.

Injuries hanging over from the Whittier game, incidentally the first conference affair of the season, are troubling the Engineer mentor. Thomas and Smith, both of whom were injured in the Post-Caltech encounter, are still on the hospital list, and will not be seen in Saturday's line-up. To make matters worse, Seymour, scrappy left guard, is laid up with the mumps, and Kinsey is suffering a bad cold. Even with all of these men in the game, the Caltech Engineers would find in Occidental a tough bit of going, and with them out it is hard to predict by just what margin the Tigers will emerge victors.

Probably Groat will call signals for the Engineers Saturday, while Cannon and Sellers at the half back berth, and Kinsey at full back. The Caltech line is expected to grace the line as have graced it in previous encounters this season. In case Smith's injury shows marked improvement by Saturday, he will take Seymour's place at left guard.

No Telephone Detours

In Los Angeles there are over 182,000 telephones. From each telephone to every other there is a voice highway—a wire road. Over 1,300,000 telephone journeys are taken over these highways every day.

When it is necessary to widen, strengthen or otherwise improve the public highway, the authorities are able to divert all travel and to complete the necessary work without interruption. The public accepts the situation, realizing its necessity and the greater comfort and convenience of the future.

Telephone traffic, however, permits no interference with the voice highways. Continuous service must be given through its physical equipment while the same "plant" is being improved and enlarged. In Los Angeles expenditures exceeding the sum of $9,000,000 for extensions and betterments have been authorized this year exclusive of the costs of operation and maintenance.

New buildings are being erected and others enlarged—larger cables are being substituted for smaller ones—cables are taking the place of open wires—new switchboards are being installed and additions are being made to others—pole lines and underground conduits are being extended—thousands of additional telephones have been placed in service as well as many thousands moved at the request of the subscribers.

Coincident with all this work has been the necessity of giving service to old and new subscribers through this constantly growing telephone "plant." The public highways may be temporarily closed, but the voice highways must be kept open for the twenty-four hours of the day. This has been one of the greatest problems of our engineers, and we assure our patrons that as we install extensions and betterments every effort is constantly made to maintain and improve our present service.

NEBRASKA GRIDDER FRACTURES HIS LEG

LINCOLN (Neb.) Nov. 16. — Glenn Preston, quarterback of the Nebraska University football team, suffered a compound fracture of the left leg just above the ankle this afternoon in scrimmage against the freshman team. Preston was running with the ball when tackled by two freshmen.

The loss of Preston will seriously handicap the Cornhuskers in their Thanksgiving game against Notre Dame.

HAVERTY BOWLERS LOSE TO McEWENS

The fourth round of the Mercantile Bowling League was played Wednesday night, with some lively competition. The Haverly team lost three games in a row to the Porter McEwen team at the Angelus Academy.

The result of each game was in favor of the McEwens by a good majority of pins. Mandot and Prenatt were the stars for the winning team.

HEAVY MAYS IS TO REMAIN WITH YANKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The question "What is to become of Carl Mays?" which has been agitating baseball circles for the last week, with rumors that he was to be sent to the minors denied by equally unverified reports that he was to go to the Cincinnati Reds, appeared to be settled today. Col. T. L. Houston, part owner of the New York American team, has announced that Mays will remain with the Yanks.

BASKET SQUADS GO INTO SECOND ROUND

The membership basketball league at Central Y.M.C.A. goes into its second round tonight and visitors will be welcome at the "Y" 8 p.m. The feature battle brings together D. Sandusky's team and the strong "Huskies," captained by E. E. Siddons, both undefeated as yet in tournament play. The first game is called at 7 o'clock and three matches will be played.

YALE AND PRINCETON TO PLAY TOMORROW

PRINCETON (N. J.) Nov. 16.—The largest crowd in Princeton's football history will gather in Palmer Stadium Saturday to witness the forty-sixth annual battle between Yale and Princeton. The contest here today announced several thousand above that for any previous year. Forty-one special trains will be run from New York and Philadelphia.

NEW TULARE COURTHOUSE

VISALIA, Nov. 16.—The Tulare county board of supervisors in session here today announced an option had been obtained by the county on five blocks of property for a new courthouse to cost approximately $1,000,000 will be erected.

The Great Prince Shan

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

resulted in a disturbing cloud of suspicion.

His companion's voice sounded strangely in his ears.

"They say that the young lady is engaged to Lord Dorminster," Immanuel went on.

For the second time Prince Shan looked directly at the little group. His eyes rested upon Maggie, simply dressed but wonderfully soignée, very alluring, laughing up into the face of her escort. Their eyes did not actually meet, but each was conscious of the other's regard.

"If we should chance to come together naturally," he said, "it would gratify me to make the acquaintance of Lady Maggie Trent."

Immanuel was bland and intransigent as usual. Introducing everyone, apparently, to make one common party. Prince Shan remained by Maggie's side after the introduction had been effected. A chair which Immanuel seemed to offer him elsewhere he calmly refused.

"This is my first evening in London, Lady Maggie," he said. "I am fortunate."

"Why?" she asked.

He looked at her meditatively. Then he accepted her unspoken invitation and seated himself on the lounge by her side.

"We who come from the self-contained circles of the world," he explained, "and China is one of them, come always with the desire and longing for new experiences, new sensations. My own appetite for these is insatiable."

"And am I a new sensation?" Maggie asked, glancing up at him innocently enough, but with a faint gleam of mockery in her eyes.

"You are," he answered placidly. "You reveal—or rather you suggest—the things of which in my country we know nothing."

"But I thought you were all so hypercivilized over there," Maggie observed. "Please tell me at once what it is that I possess which your womenkind do not."

"I answered all that your question implied," he said. "I should make use of speech too direct for the conventions of the world in which you live. I would simply remind you that whereas we men in China may claim, I think, to have reached the same standard of culture and civilization as Europeans, we have left our womenkind far behind in that respect. The Chinese woman, even the noble lady, does not care for serious affairs. The God of the Mountains as they call him, made her a flower to pluck, a beautiful plaything for her chosen mate. She remains primitive. That is why, the person of imagination looks sometimes westward, finds a new joy and a strange new fascination in a 'wildly different' type of femininity."

"But you have many European women now living in China," Maggie reminded him. —"American women, too, and they are so much admired everywhere."

"The Chinese, especially we of the nobility," Prince Shan replied, "are born with racial prejudices. An individual may forgive an affronting nation never. The days of retaliation by force of arms may indeed have passed, but the gentleman of China, even of these days, is not likely to admire the woman of America."

"Dear me," Maggie murmured, "is it rather out of date to preserve these ancient loaths?"

"Feeling of all sort is out of date," he admitted. "Yet there are some things which endure. I should be heartily amused to call upon you—and your aunt."

"We shall be delighted," Maggie replied. "But you won't like my aunt. You shall take me out to tea tomorrow afternoon instead."

A smoldering fire burned for a moment in his eyes.

"That will make me very happy," he said. "I shall attend you at four o'clock."

Presently the little party broke up, bound, it seemed, for the same theater. Nigel had become a little serious.

"Well, you've made a good start, Maggie," he remarked, leaning forward in the limousine.

"Have I?" Maggie answered thoughtfully. "I wonder."

"I wish we could get at him in some different fashion," Maggie assured him. "I even let the President of the German republic hold my hand once when he wife wasn't looking. Nothing came out of it," she added, with a little sigh.

"These Germans are terribly sentimental when it doesn't cost them anything. They've no idea of a fair exchange."

"By a 'fair exchange' you mean," he suggested, a little censoriously, "that you expected him to barter his country's secrets for a touch of your fingers?"

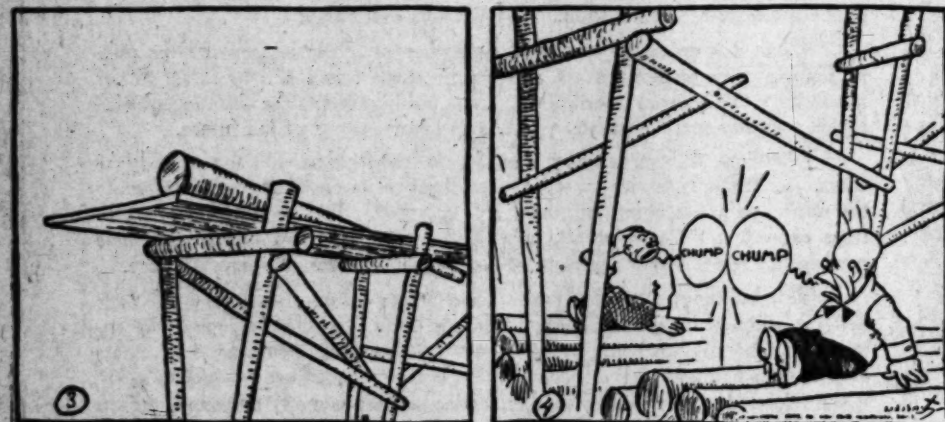

"Or my lips, perhaps," Maggie added, with a little grimace.

"Please don't look so serious, Aunt. I'm not really in love with Prince Shan, you know."

DESERT STRIKE
MESSAGES READIndicate Conspiracy to Stall
Trains in ArizonaGovernment's Case Appears UnanswerableDay Given to Consideration of Telegrams

The government began the task yesterday of laying deep and wide the foundations for the charge of conspiracy against the Needles strikers, who on August 10, last, abandoned a passenger and mail train west-bound over the Santa Fe Railway at Needles, and exposed 300 passengers to the rigors of summer in the desert country.

Hiram C. Todd, Special Assistant Atty.-Gen., marshaled a sheaf of telegrams, sent from and received at the office of the Western Union Telegraph Company at Needles, beginning a few days before the walk-out and running for week or ten days following that event. These messages numbered more than 200, and were furnished by Manager Whitaker of the Western Union Company.

They were sent all over the Arizona and Albuquerque divisions of the Santa Fe line—Las Vegas, N. M., Bagdad, Barstow, Winslow, Seligman, Hackberry, Parker, Peach Springs, and a score of other points, indicating the arrangement between various lodges of the Big Four Brotherhood as to the strike that began at Needles, and its conduct for a week after the abandonment of the movement.

SIGNIFICANT MESSAGE
The most significant message of the entire lot was that of the official of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, declaring that the men at Needles had no right to strike, and charging that they clearly violated their working agreement with the Santa Fe, when they did so.

The following messages, sent by G. Lee, head of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, with headquarters at Cleveland, O., was an indication of the attitude of the officials of that organization toward the outbreak at Needles.

For such it was, as the records show that it was never authorized nor approved. The telegram is dated August 14, last, runs as follows:

"Am advised that members of several terminals of the Santa Fe Coast Line have deserted their posts of duty in violation of brotherhood law and their working agreement with the company. Vice President Wells has called upon Brown, Robertson, Sheppard and myself to define our positions regarding such illegal action, and to require compliance with our agreement of cancellation of the same may be expected. I have just wired him as follows: 'Have wired local officers your line to require membership to perform usual and regular duties until authorized to quit service according to constitution, and that failure to comply with Brotherhood laws and working agreement by the local officers will result in the cancellation of the company of the working agreement in effect.'

SITUATION SERIOUS
"Hope you understand the seriousness of the situation and that you advise officers of your com."

pany you are ready and willing to perform usual and regular service. Two vice-presidents are en route to the coast."

It is the contention of the government, that will be shown later on by evidence that John Bannan, a vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, went to Needles and removed every officer of all the lodges of the B. R. T. who participated in the strike. This was done after Bannan had made a thorough investigation of the situation at Needles.

Agents of the Department of Justice secured almost 500 messages that had passed between the Needles strikers and their fellow-railway employees along the line and in various parts of the country, but only about one-half of that great number were read to the jury. That required about all day. The definite calling of the strike was announced by the sending of the following telegram to all concerned by the defendants: Arthur Bauer, Raymond, Fraser, Fox and Woodcock, of the Needles strike committee, under date of August 10, reading as follows:

"Notice all conductors, train engine and yard men have suspended operations until further notice, to take effect at 4 p. m."

HONOR AWAITS BOY HERO

Los Angeles School Lad to Receive Scout Silver
Valor Medal for Saving Two Lives

For saving the lives of Mrs. Martin Thielan and her daughter Madeline at Kahana Bay, Hawaiian Islands, William Cannon, a Los Angeles High School boy, will receive tomorrow the silver valor medal of the National Organization of the Boy Scouts of America.

The ceremony will take place in Pershing Square and the presentation will be made by Mayor Cryer and Sylvester L. Weaver, former president of the Chamber of Commerce, and representative of the National Boy Scout organization.

All 1200 members of the Los Angeles Boy Scout Council are expected to be present and take part.

"Bill" Cannon, though only 18 years old, is six feet one and a half inches tall and weighs 119 pounds. His modesty is more in proportion to his age than his size, for he declared the exploit which got him the medal had more of fun than danger in it and was nothing more than any scout could be expected to do.

"I just happened to hear Mrs. Thielan scream for help," he said. "Mother and I were camping near the bay and I just went to her assistance. I took the little girl ashore first, then went back to get the mother. They had been swept away by the tide beyond their depth."

Mrs. Thielan was pretty badly gone, but I put her on her stomach and revived her. The way I learned as a Boy Scout. She got over it very quickly."

"Bill" says he will be a scout-master when he is 19. That is his principal ambition at present. The Cannon moved from Hawaii to Los Angeles in September and "Bill" enrolled in the Pioneer school.

His life-saving exploit would not have been heard of had Mrs. Thielan not written to his scoutmaster, S. W. Robley of Troop 24, Schofield Barracks, T. H., who referred the report to national headquarters. Soon after Mr. Robley gave "Bill" a personal letter from Daniel C. Beard, national chairman, announcing that the court of honor had conferred a silver medal upon him.

The program of the presentation ceremonies has been arranged as follows:

At 11 o'clock, Boy Scout Band will play national airs, while marching around the fountain in Pershing Square.

William Cannon

At 11:30 Los Angeles Council, Boy Scouts, will stand at attention after an exhibition drill.

At 11:45 Mayor Cryer will address the scouts on behalf of the city.

At 11:48 Sylvester L. Weaver, representing the national board of trustees, will present the medal.

Los Angeles Council will begin a ten-day campaign for a $50,000 fund December 20. The money will be used to equip and maintain the Hollywood Hills camp, buy new instruments for the band and for other scout purposes.

PRIZE LIST OUT SUNDAY

"Times" Will Announce Eight Winners of $1000
Each in Great De Mille "Idea" Contest

Prize-winners in the Cecil B. De Mille-Los Angeles Times Idea Contest will be named in Sunday's Eight people who tied for first honors will be given equal prizes of $1000 each. This is the first time in the history of any contest that such generosity has been exemplified. Mr. De Mille's action in doing this is entirely voluntary, as by the terms of the contest he need to have given but one prize of $1000 and that to the idea best expressed. Second, third and fourth prize winners also will be named.

Next Tuesday evening at the big studio banquet of the Paramount Sales convention, Mr. De Mille will deliver a talk epitomizing the remarkable results he has obtained from this contest, which drew 30,000 entries from every State in the Union, from Canada, Mexico, Australia, England and France.

To the one hundred branch managers and film executives present he will tell his plans for making the first prize idea into what he confidently believes will be one of the greatest productions of the century. He classes the depth and power of the $2000 idea as "mastodonic."

But even of more importance will be his discussion before the convention of what the contest has shown as to the likes and dislikes of the public. S. R. Kent, general manager of the department of distribution, has ordered his subordinates to follow this portion of Mr. De Mille's talk with special care.

Also deeply interested in what Mr. De Mille has discovered from the 30,000 replies are Adolph Zukor, president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation and Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president in charge of production. These two men check the spending of millions of dollars in and around Los Angeles each year, and during the next twelve months this spending will be guided in large measure by the verdict of Times readers as expressed in the contest just closed.

Watch for Sunday's Times. There will be stories of the winners of the $1000 awards. There will be tales of those who missed fortune by the margin of a single word. There will be stories of good to be done to the sick and the maimed through the disposal of the major awards. To entrants in the De Mille-Times contest and to players in general there will be much of interest in Sunday's account of the prize winners.

BURGLARY CHARGE

Charges of attempted burglary were filed yesterday against John Kartangan, Donald Kartangan, J. U. Sugarman and George Harrian. The youths were arrested on the 18th inst., by Police Lieut. Poor near Sixty-seventh street and Moneta avenue.

The officer declared that he surprised the four in the act of trying to break into the drug store of Paul C. Breul, 4751 Moneta avenue. The men are said to have bored a number of holes in the lock of the front door preparatory of forcing it. The officer said, add when arrested they had in their possession a brace and bit and two automatic
